

TEACHER

THURSDAY, APRIL 26, 2018

10am – 5pm

Join us for a day of practicing tools and resources for using photography in the classroom. The theme for this session is Documenting your Community.

REGISTER NOW!

WHO

NYC Teachers - middle school through high school. Teachers of all subjects (art, social studies, language arts, science etc.) are welcome!

WHEN

Thursday, April 26, 2018
10am – 5pm

WHERE

United Photo Industries
16 Main Street, #B || DUMBO Bklyn NY 11201

HOW

Sign up at unitedphotoindustries.com/education/pd-day/
Space is limited, and first come first served.

COST

Completely free to attend!

INCLUDES

Light breakfast, lunch, and happy hour!

UPI Teacher Professional Development Day will teach tools and techniques to use photography in the classroom. It focuses on incorporating photography into social studies and language arts curriculum, and designed to explore cross-disciplinary learning.

Teacher Professional Development Day includes:

Practicing tools for using photography in the classroom

Workshops on how to use photography for students to practice literacy, analysis and critical thinking skills

Collaboration with photographers and journalists

Work with the photographer to develop documentary photo-based lesson plans using UPI exhibitions. Through five photographers who have their lens on their community, we will explore documentary projects that teach students to be investigators, historians and storytellers of the city around them.

Networking with teachers across disciplines

Brainstorm and collaborate with teachers across the city and across disciplines. Enjoy a meal and happy hour with your colleagues!

* Space is limited so registration is first-come, first-served.

PROUDLY SUPPORTED BY

